MUKDEN CLAIMS CAPTURE OF CHAPENG; 3 BATTALIONS ROUT ONE CHIHILI DIVISION

Four Guns Taken And Two Regiments Surrender As City Falls, Says Fengtien Headquarters; Big Offensive Opened At Shanhaikwan With Heavy Casualties On Both Sides

(Eastern News Agency)
Tientsin, Oct. 7.—It is reported from an authoritative source that early this morning, the Fengtien troops began to make a general attack upon the Chihli troops in the sector of Shanhaikwan.

About 12 o'clock last night, the main forces of the Chihli and Fengtien troops, which had been holding themselves against each other, suddenly clashed. At 4 this morning, fighting became very furious and the Chihli troops are now replying with their might to the fire from the Fengtien troops.

(Reuters Pacific Service)
Mukden, Oct. 6.—Following the capture of Linyan, a Fengtien communique reports that General Chang Chung-chang, the Fengtien Chief of Staff, with three battalions engaged a whole Chihli division at Chapeng. The communique claims that the Chihli forces were completely routed, the Fengtien troops capturing the city, four guns and much material, while two enemy regiments surrendered.

(Reuters Pacific Service)
Tientsin, Oct. 7.—The Government troops attacked the Shanhaikwan front this morning, and a big engagement with heavy artillery fire is taking place. Latest reports indicate that the Fengtien troops are slowly falling back.

(Eastern News Agency)
Tientsin, Oct. 7.—It has come to light that General Wang, Hsiao-ching, Commander-in-Chief of the Second Chihli Army, who was reported to have been shot at the front of his own men and died in Peking on the 2nd instant, is at present recuperating himself in a certain place in the British concession here.

(Reuters Pacific Service)
Peking, Oct. 7.—It seems generally taken for granted that the eighteen aeroplanes have been handed over to Marshal Chang Tso-lin's agents. As the Chihli is unable to cross the bar it is thought probable that the planes were transferred to local vessels. The affair has aroused much feeling in Chinese official circles.

Replying to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs' protest, the French Legation said in effect that there was no law in France to prevent the exportation of commercial aeroplanes, though effective regulations could be applied with regard to military planes. The Legation had no knowledge of aeroplanes being aboard the Chantilly, but, if so, instructions would be given to the Messageries Maritime Company for the planes not to be sent to Manchuria. It seems probable, however, that the planes had been handed over when the protest reached the Legation.

Peking, Oct. 7.—It is reported that a battle is about to begin on the Shanhaikwan front.

Peking, Oct. 7.—General Wang Chen-ping has reached Chengteh-fu, and preparations are continuing on all the front.

Mukden, Oct. 7.—Twenty aeroplanes have arrived here from France. Six tanks and fifteen trench mortars have been dispatched to Shanhaikwan.

(Eastern News Agency)
Mukden, Oct. 6.—It is reported from a well-informed Chinese source here that the Fengtien troops at 4 a.m. on the 4th instant opened a general attack upon the Chihli troops in the sector of Shanhaikwan with the 2nd Brigade commanded by Kuo Sung-ching, Vice-Commander of the Third Fengtien Army, but that the Fengtien troops, countered by a fierce attack on both their flanks by the Chihli forces, suffered more than 100 killed and wounded.

whereas the Chihli troops are reported to have also suffered many casualties, owing to an attack on their flanks by the Fengtien troops.

ELEVEN NATIONS SIGNATORIES TO ARMS PROTOCOL

Great Britain Has Not Yet Endorsed Pact On Disarmament

Geneva, Oct. 6.—Up to the present eleven States, including France and Belgium but not Britain, have signed the Disarmament Protocol.

(Reuters Service)
Capetown, Oct. 6.—The Cape Times, commenting on the Japanese amendments to the Disarmament Protocol, refers to the observation of its Geneva correspondent that, whereas the principal preoccupation of the Dominions was to preserve the sovereignty of their jurisdiction, the chief preoccupation of the British delegates was to get the Protocol signed. The same criticism seems to apply to the compromise.

It is fortunate for the Dominions, the newspaper goes on, that the Protocol, as amended, must be approved by their Parliaments, which are not likely to adopt the present Government in making a window-dressing display for their own domestic ends without any real care for the welfare of the peoples of the Dominions.

(French Wireless through Reuters)
Paris, Oct. 6.—Count Skrynski, the Polish Minister for Foreign Affairs, who is at present in Paris, expressed his great confidence in the work accomplished at Geneva and his admiration of the magnificent role played by France in the elaboration of the Protocol.

Dr. Benes, the Czechoslovakian Minister for Foreign Affairs, arrived in Paris today.

M. Herriot, the French Premier, last Saturday received Herr von Hoesch, the German Ambassador.

The President of the Republic was present last Sunday at a banquet of the 19th Automobile Exhibition at which 500 persons, from political, military and industrial circles were present. M. Herriot, M. Painleve and many other Ministers accompanied President Doumergue, who thanked the constructors for the increase of wealth which their activity afforded to the country.

SHANGHAI JEWRY WILL OBSERVE ATONEMENT DAY

All Day Fast And Services In Synagogues Will Mark The Day

Shanghai Jewry today will cease work completely, observe a strict fast until dusk and spend practically the whole of the morning, afternoon and evening in local Synagogues, where Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement) services are being held accompanied by solemn rites and ceremonies. Similar services will be held in all parts of the world where a Jewish congregation can be assembled together.

The Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, is regarded by all Jews as the holiest day in the calendar of the Synagogue. The observance of the occasion commenced from sunset yesterday and will terminate at sunset today, in all Synagogues of the world. On this day the most poignant and awe-inspiring litanies and prayers are recited in accordance with ancient custom. No other holy day has been endowed with quite such significance and solemnity. In the Pentateuch the Day of Atonement is represented as a priestly ceremony wherein the High Priest of the Temple performed the important function of expiation for the sanctuary, the priesthood, and, incidentally, the people. To the common people this day had no particular importance, beyond that attached to the Sabbath excepting the fact that they were to observe it as a fast day in order to obtain absolution for their sins.

A PRIMITIVE RITE
There was in ancient times a primitive rite practised in connection with Yom Kippur. Two goats were selected, one of which was sent to Azazel, the demon of the desert, to bear away the sins of the people, while the other was offered as a sacrifice to the Lord. This rite was abandoned before the common era. In its earlier setting Yom Kippur seems to have been a day of communion on the part of the High Priest with God. It was he who confessed his sins and those of the people and implored forgiveness. On this day it was believed that the High Priest actually beheld the Majesty of God. For it was on this day that he entered the Holy of Holies. Against this background of priestly ceremonialism with its archaic forms of expiation the Rabbis of the Synagogue devised a Day of Atonement, that accorded with the message of the prophets. As a result of this new interpretation it was no longer possible for the High Priest to obtain forgiveness by sacrificial blood, incense or scapegoat. The only means by which the sinner obtained forgiveness was by repentance of his own accord and by his own resolution to return from the error of his ways and come again to God. As in the days of old the High Priest of the Temple confessed his sins with a contrite heart, so now every son of the covenant of Abraham is enjoined to enter his house of worship and spend the day in meditation and prayer.

On this Day of Atonement each individual learns to approach God in true humility, imploring His pardon for sin, promising to amend his ways and make himself worthy as man and citizen. The celebration of the Day of Atonement begins with a service known as Kol Nidre (all vows) which refers to vows concerning the individual and his conscience. The spirit of God is invoked at the beginning of the service to aid the penitent soul in improving its ways, since God's mercy alone cannot remove sin unless evil is uprooted from the heart and every wrong redressed in sincere repentance. The universal character of the holy day is strikingly shown in the Afternoon Service. The scriptural selection is the Book of Jonah which tells of God's all-forgiving mercy toward all the children of men. A feature of the day is its Memorial Service. This service reminds the worshipper that while death awaits each one of us, such death is not the end of all existence and is therefore not to be feared. Immortal life has been implanted within us and all who contribute to the good of humanity and thus hasten the advent of the Kingdom of God are not forgotten. Thus the living immortalize the dead by emulating their noble deeds.

Fukien Troops Cut Off Sungkiang From Rail Traffic With Shanghai

China Press Correspondent Caught In Running Advance Of General Sun's Men Later Makes Way Into Chekiang Territory

BY TALBOT PATRICK
Fukien troops yesterday afternoon reached and blocked the railway line this side of Sungkiang and the Chekiang front and reserve lines on that front. At the same time they swept me in their midst into the center of the briskest bit of firing I ever want to participate in.

The situation as I write this back in Shanghai is critical. Should the Fukien troops I saw be merely a party of two hundred which broke through the line and after whose passage the Chekiang line was closed, as once happened on the Huangtu front in an affair I reported a day ahead of other papers, they will probably be surrounded and compelled to surrender or be wiped out by a gathering of scattering forces from Lunghua and parties from Sungkiang.

Should the troops be a vanguard of stronger forces to come, as their confident bearing suggested, it is highly probable that the whole section of the Chekiang army from the Whangpoo south of Sungkiang to Chingpu is in imminent danger of being surrounded and Lunghua, the arsenal and Shanghai lie practically defenseless to a back door attack by the same troops which slipped in behind another fighting line to take Hangchow.

Latest reports indicated last night that eight hours after they reached the railway the Fukien troops still held their position or had bettered it.

Now for the actual encounter with the invaders. I had visited Sungkiang, obtained information and at 12:30 returned to the small station a short way outside the Sungkiang east gate, known as Ming Hsin Chiao. In order to take a quiet walk toward the Whangpoo and learn how heavy the fighting in that direction actually had been, as well as the location of field pieces attempting to shell trains on a curve between Ming Sing Chiao and the main Sungkiang station.

THE MEN IN GREY
Jacket, raincoat and portable typewriter were deposited in the care of a kindly stationmaster and with King He-Joh, my interpreter, I walked an eighth of a mile down the track toward Shanghai to where a main wheelbarrow road from the east gate crossed on its way toward Wo Yang-lao, a town almost due east. A hundred yards after we had left the railway, with Sungkiang on our backs, we saw soldiers

Ramsay MacDonald Opens Special Effort Funds For Independent Labor Party With Donation Of £100; General Election Possible

(Reuters Service)
London, Oct. 6.—Mr. Lloyd George, addressing an enthusiastic audience of 10,000 people today at Leicester, accused Mr. Ramsay MacDonald of abuse of his prerogative in putting the country to the expense and inconvenience of an election, instead of consenting to an enquiry into the Workers' Weekly case. He declared that a gang of extremists had bullied the Government into interfering with justice in the Workers' Weekly prosecution. The same gang had bullied them into a guarantee to Russia.

Concluding, the ex-Premier asked "If the Government cannot restrain wild men now, when failure to restrain them means defeat, what could the Government do if they had the majority and were able to defy the Liberals, the Conservatives and everybody else?"

KIANGNAN DOCK DETAINS FIVE FOREIGN SHIPS

Demands Payment For Repairs Before Releasing Them, Violating Custom

Further complications in the already mixed-up affairs of the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering Works developed yesterday when it became known that four American and one Japanese ship are being detained at the Dock upon orders of the two new directors of the Chinese Government Institution recently taken over by General Ho Feng-lin. The American ships are the Lake Fielding, belonging to the United States Shipping Board, the Chichuen, owned by the Yangtze River Steamship Company, the Dollar, a ship belonging to the Dollar Company and the one owned by the Yangtze River Steamship Company. The Japanese ship is the Gochi from the Upper Yangtze services.

All of these ships have been in the dockyards for some time undergoing repairs and in view of the fact that the repairs have been completed, the boats should be released, but this the new directors of the Dock, Messrs. Chao Ching-hua and P. T. Messers, refuse to do unless payment for the work is received prior to surrendering the ships. The custom always has been when boats are sent to the Kiangnan Dock for repairs, that when the work is completed the ships are turned over to the owners and then a statement covering the cost of the work is sent in the ordinary course of business.

The American owners of the ships, according to report yesterday, have not decided what action they will take. If they pay for the repair work now there is a possibility that the Chinese Government at some future date may repudiate the actions of General Ho in seizing the dockyard in which circumstance the owners of the ships would be required to pay twice for the work.

The general situation at the Kiangnan Dock is more or less chaotic according to reports in Shanghai yesterday. When the foreign staff arrived for work yesterday morning they found their offices locked and they were denied entrance to their usual places of business and in addition to this it was said that all of the skilled Chinese laborers, including fitters and so on had gone on strike because of the action of General Ho in discharging Admiral K. N. Lew and H. K. Kwong, former directors of the company.

Mr. B. Maucham, superintendent of the Kiangnan Dock, who is an appointee of the Chinese Government is still trying to carry out his duties, but very little is being accomplished, according to report. It is said that when the former Chinese directors, Messrs. Kwong and Lew were forced out they deposited funds belonging to the company amounting to a half million taels in one of the foreign banks here where the money will be held pending the final outcome of the controversy.

SUN CHUAN-FANG'S MEN SMASH LINE, SITUATION HERE APPEARS CRITICAL

Report Of Capture Of Half A Dozen Good-Sized Towns Behind The Kiangsu Army By Chekiang Secret Service Men Received; Chekiang Leaders Have Program For Self-Government

With the forces of Sung Chuan-fang smashing the Chekiang line of defence at Sungkiang, the war situation in Shanghai and vicinity assumed a very critical aspect last night.

Early yesterday morning, two hundred of Tuli Sun Chuan-fang's Fukien braves managed to break through the Ming Sin Chiao and penetrated the village of Chukiawan. But before they got very far, the 38th regiment under General Chen Yao-shan was on their heels and literally slaughtered them one by one after effecting an encircling movement. Only 23 were alive and were captured.

In view of the importance of this sector, General Lu Yang-hsiang yesterday appointed General Chwang Tse-ping, the veteran Fukien fighting leader, to command the troops in this region. More than 1,000 soldiers were sent to Minghong yesterday to strengthen the position.

In the official communique given out by Judge Loh at the Arsenal at midnight last night communication was still had with Sungkiang by both trains and telegraph and apparently General Lu Yang-hsiang's troops had the situation in hand. Reinforcements were being sent out in the form of both men and munitions at an early hour this morning. Late yesterday afternoon the situation at Sungkiang was quite serious. A small force of Fukien troops apparently crossed the Whangpoo and got up to Sungkiang itself but after a sharp fight they were repulsed.

The situation at both Huangtu and Liuhou remained quiet and unchanged except that the Kiangsu forces facing Huangtu for some reason apparently had retreated a short distance.

General Lu was in receipt of a telegram from the North yesterday stating that the attitude of General Feng Yung-hsiang was still doubtful. It seems that General Feng had telegraphed President Tso Kun from the town of Nian stating that pay for General Feng's troops had not been forthcoming and that he refused to levy upon the Chinese people of the country in view of the fact that they were already suffering from famine and other privations. It is not believed, according to Dr. Loh's communique, that General Feng is entering wholeheartedly into the advance northward to the relief of Peking from the threatened advance of General Chang Tso-lin's forces in the direction of Jehol.

At six o'clock yesterday morning, the Kiangsu forces again attacked Shihshutang and bombarded the defenders of Bridge No. 31. The fieldpieces of the fourth division and General Yang Hua-chao at once responded actively and intense fighting continued throughout the morning. Stray bullets and shrapnel were found in Sungkiang itself when the fighting raged.

Sporadic firing was staged Monday night in Kiating, but it stopped at dawn without changing the battle line.

Further mix-up among the ranks of the Kiangsu Army was learned at the Lunghua Yamen yesterday when it was reported that General Chang Cheng, commander of the Chekiang Secret Service, have taken the cities of Fanning, Lianshui, Yencheng, Szang, Moyang and Kanyu in the Kiangpoh district of Kiangsu after disarmament of the brigade under General Ma Yu-jen.

Chang was in Shanghai at the outbreak of the war, but left with 300 armed men for Kiangsu on September 20 together with two portable machine guns and large quantities of ammunition for Lianshui, on the 26th, says the report, he assaulted the forces of Ma Yu-jen and disarmed over 2,000 men on the 30th, resulting in the capture of the important Kiangsu towns. His army, meanwhile, has increased to one of more than 5,000 strong.

The Hupeh brigade under General Chang Yung-ming sent by Tsuchun Hsiao Yao-nan to reinforce the Kiangsu army has surrendered, according to an announcement from Lunghua. General Chang was a school mate of General Chwang Tse-ping. Following the heavy casualties inflicted on his brigade in Huangtu, he was approached by General

Funeral Of Late Consul Raaschou To Be Held Today
Cortege To Start From St. Marie's Hospital; Flags Here At Half Mast
The funeral of the late Peter Theodor Raaschou, Danish Consul-General in Shanghai, former Senior Consul here, and Danish Consular Judge for China, who died Monday morning at St. Marie's Hospital, will take place this afternoon. The cortege will leave the hospital at 4.15, proceeding to Bubbling Well Cemetery via Rue Pere Robert, Route des Soeurs, Avenue Foch, Seymour Road, and Bubbling Well Road. While in the French Concession a guard of honor of Annamite Police will accompany the funeral cortege, and in the International Settlement a guard of Sikh Mounted Police. A detachment of Danish members of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps will also participate, supplemented by Norwegian and Swedish friends.

Chiang through secret service men, Chang, being dissatisfied with the treatment of the Kiangsu headquarters, according to the report, accepted the terms of General Lu Yung-shiang and joined the Chekiang army.

A reward has been offered by the Kiangsu army for the recovery of the remains of Colonel Li Pao-kuei of the Honan army, killed in action in the general offensive conducted against Huangtu at the last part of September. Tsuchun Chih, Hsiao-yuan has written to the Chinese Red Cross at Shanghai the Chamber of Commerce and other benevolent institutes to look for the body the Honan colonel.

General Pao Kuo-kan, commander of the first Chekiang division whose forces revolted against him on the Fukien border at the early stage of the war, returned to Ningpo by the steamer

Hsin Peking on Monday after consulting the leaders of the Chekiang Province here.

Mr. Yu Yeh-ching, chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, and several other Chekiang leaders, left for Ningpo on the same day on the Hsin Peking.

It is understood that a plan for the reconstruction of Chekiang by getting out of military rule was formulated when General Pao Kuo-kan was in Shanghai. A sum of $200,000 was raised for the support of an independent army which will enforce the Provincial Constitution promulgated in 1921.

The administrative council of the province will function as the highest executive body of the people and will consist of 11 representatives of the eleven prefectures of the province.

about a break in the line and we conjectured they were being brought up from points this side of Minghong to reinforce up the railway. A first group of seventy or eighty passed, then more appeared, running at a dog trot. Their hats were motley and the run unusual, so I took several snapshots. But, as still more appeared, I worriedly asked again about the line and was told there had been two breaks, one in a direction due behind them.

I took up a run beside them, having no desire to remain being fleeing Chekiang men to receive a Fukien attack. But the high arch of a small bridge offered another tempting stand from which to take photographs, although one not too favorable in just of danger. This was back just across the railway line.

With more men, I took up a run again between the shuttered shops which lined both sides of this main street through the part of the town grown up outside the city walls.

"A REPORTER'S LIFE"
Suddenly a thousand firecrackers seemed to be going off all at once and bullets pinged down the street. The holdiers jumped to either side and hugged the walls, though not before several had been wounded. Then they went forward, shooting. "Another of these fatal mistakes where the Chekiang men shoot up each other," I thought.

Just ahead a soldier lay in the street with blood pouring from his right leg. His grip about the wound did not stop a flow which alternately flooded out and then momentarily ebbed to show a hole just the size of a pea. Another soldier bent over him solicitously, but helplessly. So I grabbed at the arteries under the knee and tried to stop the blood, desperately wishing I could recall all the first aid I had once known.

No water-worn pebbles here, so King broke off a small piece of stone. I dragged out a handkerchief, but the whole soldier was quick with a bandage of heavy cotton tied around his bandolier. A piece of this wrapped the stone and deadened the sharpness of its edges. The little bundle was tied in the center of the short bandage and pressed against the back of the leg where King's hands had replaced mine. A knot joined the ends of the strip of cloth and an unused cartridge was thrust into the spare length and used to twist the bandage tight. Then the bullet end of the cartridge was tucked under the bandage to keep the twisted section from unwinding.

GENERAL SUN'S MEN
Two coolies distinguished by small Red Crosses on their arms had come up with a rough stretcher of woven palm-fibre twine. The soldiers who had gone ahead were retreating back in obedience to their officers, although the firing had died down. We went back with them just across the railway, but the sight of some of them taking position on the reverse side of the embankment with their rifles ready toward Sungkiang seemed inappropriate for Chekiang men.

King had asked soon after they appeared what they were and the answer had been merely a question as to which direction "the fleeing men" had gone. Of this reply I was told later. Now I told him to ask them again if they were Chekiang or Fukien men.

General Sun Chung-fang's men," was the reply.

Fukienese!

"We're got to get out of here fast, before the Chekiang men attack them," I told King, with visions in my mind of myself in the center of a group being killed off to the last man but I delayed to snap the last films on the roll in the camera and go back among some houses nearby to change film. There were the majority of the forces taking a precious rest.

BACK TO BULLETS
Before the film had been all changed, an officer requested that I go back across the open railway line, up over the conspicuous top of the bridge and down the street so recently whistling with bullets to succor a man badly wounded in the chest who had been left behind in one of the houses. My act of mercy to one man had strengthened the impression of so many Chinese that every foreigner is a healer.

I went. King followed some little way behind, having been told to keep back in case I should be fired upon. After him came two coolies with a stretcher. Railway and bridge crossed and part of the street traversed, I rounded a slight curve in it to the dangerous part.

"Mei kuo, mei kuo, mei kuo ren," ("American, American, American man") I called at every other drop of my right foot, my hands held above my head. So the procession went for some distance through the inhuman silence of that street. Then someone objected to the unmusical tones or else fired because he could not distinguish what was said. A moment later a number of rifles were in action on both sides. Bullets were zipping down the street and whining in ricochet, the coolies were flat on the ground and I felt that my front struck car altogether too far from the back pressed against a shop shutter.

Gradually the crackling died down and we sneaked on further, now looking for a side street to the right and away from where some Chekiang soldiers seemed to be located. We took counsel in a courtyard without rear egress, no cross way in the right direction having been found, despite several channels for bullets from the left. The coolies said they would not go back without the wounded man unless we went along to say the firms had been too hot to reach him. For their sakes we returned whence we had come.

THE GETAWAY
Precious time was vanishing meanwhile. I begged a card from a strawhatted Fukien officer in order to have some protection if we fell in with more of his crowd. Then we suggested that by making a detour to the right, up the railway, and around from that side we might be able to reach the wounded man. Our wishes were hastened by the sound of small field guns, probably mountain guns, which sounded quite near and were apparently firing to the rear of the men about us. The detour suggestion was received approvingly and we parted with smiles and bows. All down the line the men grinned to my smiles as they had when they first came into sight that afternoon, the cheeriest crew I had seen since the early days at Huangtu and Nanziang with the men of the former Fukien generals, Chwang Tse-ping and Yang Ho-tao. (Yang went down to command at Sungkiang two days ago, I was told later yesterday by a man of the Lunghua staff.)

So we started down the line under shelter of the embankment, my conscience partly soothed as to a broken near-promise by a determination to tell the Red Cross men first met of the location of that wounded man in the deserted police station.

REAL SOLDIERS
Reviewing the Fukien men in my mind as we walked, I decided they were mighty good soldiers. They had said they crossed the big river in the morning about an hour before I met them, though the time probably seemed shorter to them than it actually was because of the excitement. They were traveling light and, as I said, running at times. When sweeping away slight resistance, they were quick to obey the commands of officers to retire a short way.

Commands not to fire except at visible targets were instantly obeyed. The men took cover with the speed and care of experts. As soon as they were posted along the embankment, sentries went a short distance to either side down the line. The majority of the men behind the fore guard at the embankment rested easily, without any signs of nervousness at the field gun fire. They had not wasted ammunition in their morning's advance, as was shown by the plumpness of their bandoliers.

Only a diversity of headgear, including a sailor cap with the band of the China Navigation Company, and worn clothing gave a first impression that these were sloppy troops.

They were distinguished by chevrons, two or three small horizontal bars of red sewn on the left sleeve, sometimes with additional chevrons similar to but smaller than those of sergeants in our armies.

NAT A PLAY WAR
Two pictures of real war: a parish dog licking up from the street the blood of the man I had bandaged; two Chekiang prisoners led by the wide leather belts of their equipment run around their necks and through the open buckles.

As we went down the line, a locomotive drawing two freight cars still partly loaded with bags of rice and other odds-and-ends I had seen in them in Sungkiang station passed us at high speed, no one in sight except an engineer who poked his head out for a moment and shook it to my hail. We had almost reached Hsin Chiao station, five miles toward Shanghai from the Fukien men, when another train with three cars passed us and stopped. Two officers ran back and learned from me that it would be dangerous for them to go on, a general statement in accord with what they had learned over the railway telephone.

"But we have ammunition urgently needed by the troops at the front, we must try," they said. And I remembered that just ahead of the train which had taken me from Sungkiang to Ming Hsin Chiao had gone a special with a written verification of an urgent phone call for more men. The ammunition train came back after 4 o'clock with a report that active firing was in progress across the railway and that it could not get through. Over the railway phone information had come that the station where my things were left had been deserted by its staff because under fire.

SOLDIERS FLEE
Now came three fugitive soldiers.

ers overland, who said they had been on the front line west of Sungkiang and that for two days they had been without food or sent up drinks and that they had finally left because they had no ammunition, while bullets came at them "like rain." The natural tale for fugitives, but they were the first I had seen in this war.

When the ammunition special went back toward Lunghua, the whole staff from Hsin Chiao went along. About five miles further up the line we saw a Chekiang airplane which had turned tail up at an angle with wheels on top after engine trouble forced it down. The two aviators, unhurt, sat on at a station a mile further on, both Chinese. Etienne Tsu wore the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor, which he received with the croix de guerre in the French flying corps during the World War; his companion was W. J. Chang, another old fighter, who was carrying the Thompson machine gun with which the plane had been armed. They said the "ship" was but slightly damaged.

The two had their trouble before reaching the lines. The day before, they had dropped six bombs at Chungking, where they knew the headquarters of three generals of the opposing forces to be. They said that Fukien, Anhui and Kiangsu soldiers were all on the front opposite and around Sungkiang. They also told of 200 Fukien men in farmer's clothes, armed with Mauser pistols, who had gotten into the Chekiang lines the day before, been finally surrounded and exterminated.

FEW REINFORCEMENTS
At Lunghua Junction there were long lines of empty freight cars, but no soldiers to fill them. At Lunghua about a hundred and twenty men were on the platform, most of whom were believed to have come that afternoon from Linho. They had two machine guns and tremendous quantities of ammunition, running into hundreds of boxes were being loaded into cars.

I asked whether other men would come by the Minghong motor road and be loaded onto trains at Lunghua Junction. "Too far for them to come," was the answer.

I missed on information received at Sungkiang that the former Chekiang garrison at Chinsan on the seacoast a little east of a line due south from Sungkiang had gone over to Fukien when the latter troops had approached the town and that General Sun's men were proceeding up the coast. From this route they could take a good canal straight up to the Whangpoo almost opposite Minghong, could take another similar canal to reach the Whangpoo higher than Minghong or could strike into the river lower down for an attempt toward the arsenal. Other information of the morning was that ammunition had been taken back from bridge 31 to Sungkiang, that Fukien field guns were firing opposite the bridge, south of it at Tachiang and due south of Sungkiang on the Whangpoo, while the heaviest firing of the night had been rifle and machine gun fire southeast of Sungkiang at Tuhssongkong. During the night the city gates had been guarded with machine guns.

HEADQUARTERS TARGET
A protective barrier of steel freight cars had been run on a siding in front of Sungkiang station, though it was really needed near Ming Hsin Chiao, where trains and, apparently, the neighboring military headquarters had been the object of field gun fire. Going up in the morning, our train was held a time at Hsin Chiao to learn whether General Woong Ping's special, which passed it there, was shot at further up. It was not and neither was our train until its return trip, when one shrapnel burst well short of it.

The confused reports Monday night of the railway having been again cut by spies were yesterday said to be due to a soldier's report on the damage done the track by one of these shells. These were enough respected for a soldier to point his rifle to speed up the embarkation of refugees at Ming Hsin Chiao, although the rumor of a break-through was even then beginning to percolate through the military.

A Lunghua staff man declared that two regiments of Fengtien troops are being sent to aid Generals Lu and Ho, though he was non-committal about the time of arrival. Boxes stenciled like those of the Fengtien arsenal have already been seen containing ammunition on its way to troops. So far, I find no one who has also seen the northern troops.

General Ma Liang's are at last reported to have been seen. Five hundred had carbines and the remaining hundred, believed trained as bomb throwers, had the much-advertised spears. They went up two weeks ago.

Can General Sun play the back door trick again?

CLAIM AGAINST MR. A. S. ALLAN IS DISMISSED

Court Finds Partnership Of
Defendant And Hartigan
Was Not Approved

In the United States Court for China, yesterday before Judge Milton D. Purdy, the case was heard in which Li Chek Siang sued Messrs. A. S. Allan and L. W. Hartigan to recover the sum of $1,200 paid by the plaintiff to Messrs. Allan and Hartigan, which plaintiff claimed was a partnership.

In the petition, plaintiff stated that he agreed to pay the defendants the sum of $1,200 in order that they might obtain a renewal of the lease he held on a shop in Broadway, the defendants having to pay out of that sum whatever might be demanded as key money. Plaintiff paid over $1,200, but defendants had failed to obtain the lease, and had, plaintiff alleged, converted that sum to their own use.

The case against Mr. A. S. Allan only was heard, this gentleman denying that a partnership existed between himself and Mr. Hartigan, who is at present in Manila, and stating that he, Mr. Allan, was absent in America at the time of the transaction.

Mr. S. H. Lewis, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Allan was represented by Mr. F. J. Schuhl. Mr. Allan denied that any partnership existed. In 1922, when he was going home on account of sickness, Mr. Hartigan approached him for the purpose of buying some of his furniture, and eventually he took over the lease of plaintiff's office together with furniture and books, on a payment of $1,400 or $1,500.

That was in February, 1922, and it was not until October, 1923, that witness returned to Shanghai. He then found that Mr. Hartigan had outside defendants old office placed a large brass sign bearing the legend "Allan and Hartigan." Witness telephoned Mr. Hartigan to know the reason of this, but failed to obtain a satisfactory reply, whereupon he gave notice that if it were not taken down within forty-eight hours, he would take action. This was not done, whereupon witness went round to the office in Jinkee Road, tore down the sign, and threw it into the street. He did this also with the signboard which Mr. Hartigan had placed outside his Kiangse Road office, and also went out to the East Gate and West Gate of the native city and tore down similar signs. Subsequently, witness published a denial of the partnership in the local press, and wrote to the Telephone Company asking them to withdraw the name of Allan and Hartigan which they were using in the telephone book. This was not done, for the 1924 issue, and witness stated that if it appeared in next year's book he would take action. He also endeavored to have the Hong List for 1924 rectified, but without result. Defendant stated he knew nothing of the transaction upon which plaintiff sued as he was away in America at the time.

Mr. Schuhl, in summing up the case for the defendant, pointed out that they had refrained from inquiring into the matter as it concerned Mr. Hartigan, who was away at this time, but counsel had no doubt that when his case came on for trial, Mr. Hartigan would be able to give an adequate explanation of the matter.

Mr. Lewis contended that responsibility did attach to Mr. Allan, but the Court found that the partnership had not been proved and gave judgment for the defendant, Mr. Allan.

Mr. Schuhl, in summing up the case for the defendant, pointed out that they had refrained from inquiring into the matter as it concerned Mr. Hartigan, who was away at this time, but counsel had no doubt that when his case came on for trial, Mr. Hartigan would be able to give an adequate explanation of the matter.

Tientsin, Oct. 6.—General Cheng Shih-chi, Tuchun of Shantung, has organized one mixed brigade and sent it to the Lanchow to assist the Chihli troops.

(Reuter's Service)
London, Oct. 6.—The Riga correspondent of the Times says that Bolshevik clamor with regard to alleged British and American intervention in China has now taken a new turn. The Bolsheviks now denounce the "subtle policy of the Imperialists" who, they allege, are covertly largely assisting Marshal Wu Pei-fu. The Bolsheviks evidently consider Marshal Wu Pei-fu's success against Marshal Chang Tso-lin assured unless Marshal Chang received help from Japan and they are attempting to entice Japan into some sort of compact with the Soviet and into intervention on behalf of Marshal Chang.

The Izvestia, for example, declares that victory for Marshal Wu Pei-fu, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Secretary Hughes seems certain, but this would mean the end of Japan's influence in China. Therefore, one must expect Japanese intervention in favor of Marshal Chang Tso-lin against Britain and America. Japan cannot stand alone; she will seek friends. First of all Japan will endeavor to secure her safety by an arrangement with the Soviet Union. Her interests unquestionably dictate this course.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, Oct. 4.—The 1st Shensi Division, which is under the command of General Chao Tai-wen, arrived at Fengtai yesterday, where it will remain until General Chao has received further orders from Marshal Wu Pei-fu. General Hu Ching-yi, commanding the 1st Shensi Division, left here yesterday for Tungchow and will shortly take the remainder of his division on its way to Hsifengkow.

General Tien Wei-chin arrived here yesterday with a portion of his command the 26th Shensi Mixed Brigade, and called on Marshal Wu Pei-fu in the afternoon. The bulk of the brigade is still at Kuangchow and Juchow, Honan, but it is ready to leave for the North at short notice.

Aeroplanes old and new are being formed into four squadrons, each of ten machines. Colonel Lin Chi-chang is to command the first squadron, Colonel Shen Ching-hsien the second, Colonel Chau Shou-wei the third, and Colonel Chan Yun-ping the fourth. It is understood that an aeroplane bomb factory has been established within easy distance of Peking.

A mandate issued last night dismisses General Liu Fu-yao, Commandant of the 26th Brigade of the 13th Division, Assistant Director of Military Affairs at Jehol and Commandant of the Advance guard of the Second Army of the Punitive Expedition. The same mandate relieves General Kung Han-chih of his concurrent post of Vice-Commandant of the advance guard of the Second Army, but allows him to retain the post of Military Commissioner at Chaoyang. (Those two Generals were in command of the forces recently driven out of Chaoyang by the Fengtien forces).

Another mandate appoints General Tsui Wei-fan Commandant of the 26th Brigade, vice General Lu, and appoints General Tao Ching-wu as Commandant of the advance guard of the Second Army and General Chang Lin as Vice-Commandant. The Chinese press reports that General Peng Shou-hsin in a telegraphic dispatch says that the enemy on the evening of September 30 shelled the Government forces with heavy guns at Hung-chiangtze but did no serious damage. On October 1 the Government troops routed the enemy at Pailipu, mainly with machine gun fire.

At daybreak on October 1 bodies of enemy troops were seen moving westward. Enemy artillery had been brought forward to Yangchuan, Tahmeoshan and Hsimeoshan, escorted by troops from Mongchiangnumao, Lung-chichuang, Shihpaifang and Hsichingho. An attack by the enemy in this region was repulsed, but the Government troops did not advance.

General Chang Hsi-chen, Commandant of the 6th Brigade, arrived here yesterday and will leave for Luanchow shortly. The Aviation Department has sent Colonel Chiang Hsi-ling to Loyang to bring back three aeroplanes in stock there. Foreign reports state that General Peng Shou-hsin removed his headquarters from the Shanhai-kuan Hotel to front line prior to the reports of his death. According to semi-official reports the Government has decided to appoint Messrs. Huang Yu-ching and Ching Han-ding as Pacification Commissioners to Yunnan and Assistant Pacification Commissioners, respectively. These officials came to Peking as representatives of General Tang Chi-yao.

Extract from the North China Daily News of September 22nd.

Autumn is here, and with her has come a profusion of lovely fashions, which, like the first colourful leaves of Autumn, have descended upon us at an unexpected moment, vividly prophetic of the modes that will prevail in the world of fashion during the winter season. Despite the simplicity of line there is no lack of variety in the fashions of the new season. Fabrics were never so beautiful, trimmings never more exquisitely lovely, nor were details ever more charmingly complete and correct. Godet treatments, scarfs, stoles and capelets are only a few of the details that acquire the new Autumn modes of the slightest suggestion of monotony and lift them far above the fashions of other years in beauty, variety and charm. True to prophecy the sued-finished fabrics are in highest favour for suits, coats, etc. It is a far cry from the heavy, bulky fabrics of yesterday to the softly-clinging woollens of to-day. For street garments brown is a great favourite, ranging from the exquisite russet and copper tones to a rather subdued malay. On the street one sees also quite a few coats in soft mahogany tones. Artichoke and other soft greens are seen, and a revival of gray is suggested by the number of coats appearing in dark shades of taupe or mole. Linings are most important. Satin and crepe linings continue much in vogue and many interesting effects are secured through the use of plaid or striped kasha. Evening wraps are mainly of rich brocades, velvet or satin. Occasionally one sees an evening wrap of crepe satin or even very sheer material. These wraps of lighter weight usually depend on a soft lining of printed velvet for warmth. Oftentimes they are reversible.

The above might well have been written after a visit to our Drapery Department, for it so aptly describes the modes. Why not call and inspect the Autumn Display?

Below are a few items, selected at random, from our stocks.

The members of the German Women's Club (Deutsche Frauen-Club) are reminded, that the first meeting of the season will be held in the Club Rooms at 95 Weihaiwei Road on Friday, October 11, at 4 p.m. sharp. The Committee hopes there will be a good attendance, as there is a fair amount of business to be discussed.

Among the passengers arriving on the Pacific Mail Steamer "President Taft" yesterday morning was Miss Lucia Wood, daughter of Governor General Leonard Wood, of Manila. Miss Wood is accompanied by Miss Josephine Grant a prominent society girl of San Francisco, who was the house guest of Miss Wood for sometime a couple of years ago and who has many friends in the Orient who will welcome her back.

The Sports Section of the British Women's Association is making arrangements for Hockey and Badminton during the winter. Those desiring to play either game have been asked to send their names to Miss Adlam, 28 Carter Road, Telephone W. 1912.

Bishop L. J. Birney, of the Methodist Mission is booked to sail from San Francisco, October 9. Mrs. Birney and Miss Dorothy will accompany him.

Dr. Ida Kahn, of the Methodist Hospital, Nanking, returned on the s.s. "President Jefferson" last Saturday. Dr. Kahn was a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church which met in Springfield, Massachusetts, last May.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Manly and Miss Grace Manly, of the Methodist Episcopal Mission, Chengtu, arrived on the s.s. "President Hayes" yesterday and are staying in town a few days before proceeding to West China. While in town they are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Lacy.

Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Liljestrand and family, of the Union University Medical School, Chengtu, arrived yesterday on the s.s. "President Hayes" after spending a fortnight in America.

Two French chemists were prosecuted at the French Consular Court last week. M. Baurens presiding. M. P. Premet appeared for the complainant, M. Chatel, of the "Pharmacie Francaise," Nanking Road. Defendants were M. Marais formerly of the "California Pharmacy," who was represented by M. Benfous, and M. Estublier, proprietor of the "Pharmacie Moderne," Avenue Joffre, represented by M. d'Auxion de Ruffe. It was stated that the defendants who were not in possession of diplomas in pharmacy had sold doctor's prescriptions which according to French law was illegal. Both defendants admitted the accusation, but claimed that the law dealing with the illegality of chemists not in possession of diplomas was inapplicable in Shanghai. Defendants also questioned the right of M. Chatel to prosecute on two grounds. Firstly, M. Chatel, it was alleged, was guilty of selling photographic apparatus and according to French law a chemist was obliged to sell drugs only. Further, M. Chatel was in partnership with M. Grenard, who, it was also stated, did not possess a diploma. With respect to this point it was stated that the proceedings for the prosecution were being carried on in the name of M. Chatel and not that of his firm. Judgment as to whether M. Chatel has the right to prosecute was reserved for eight days, after which in the event of the hearing being granted the Court will consider the applicability of French law in Shanghai.

The Rev. John M. McInnis, Ph. D. Litt D. who is delivering a series of evangelical addresses at the Shanghai Christian Church, Range and Chapoo Roads, spoke yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock on the subject, "Is Religion Necessary to a Normal Life?" Dr. McInnis is a preacher who has spent many years in a scientific study of religion. Dr. McInnis took two courses in the Law of Evidence, one in Greenleaf under the direction of a brilliant lawyer nationally recognized; one in Stephen's Digest under a Professor of Law, now a Judge in New York State, two years of special study in Biblical Criticism under a specialist whose text book is used in Harvard University. Seven years of special study in philosophy and the development of modern thought, and the modern attitude. In his address yesterday afternoon he said that, the hunger of religion is just as physical hunger indicates a real need. To fail to meet this need defeats the purpose of life just as real as the hunger of the body. It indicates a real need just as really as the failure to meet any fundamental need of the life is fatal to its essential purpose.

The religion that meets this need must make God real, and put us in right relations with Him.

In the second place, it must take away the sense of guilt.

Third, it must give power to overcome the wrong, and to make possible the moral and spiritual mastery which we feel we were intended to realize.

These are made possible in Christ as they are not in any other religion in the world.

Miss Frances Mahon, daughter of Captain William Mahon was united in holy matrimony to Mr. James B. Farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bailey Farmer of Wilmington, North Carolina, at the residence of her father yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Clifford M. Drury of the Community Church officiated. Miss Winifred R. Hamilton was bridesmaid and the Misses China General Omnibus Company.

Gwendolyn and Viola Mahon acted as flower girls. Mr. Norman W. Sheppard supported the bridegroom as best man.

A foreign lady, Mrs. Zanella, was the complainant in the Mixed Court yesterday against a couple formerly in her employ, whom she charged with the larceny of jewelry and money to the value of $27. The man disappeared a few days ago, and later was traced to his home, where property stolen from the complainant's house was recovered, together with a number of pawn papers. The case came up before Assessor Ducknell and Magistrate Zan yesterday, and the accused remanded until Thursday.

A private exhibition of the new fleet of motor omnibuses soon to be placed in service on the streets of Shanghai by the China General Omnibus Company, Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the garage at No. 34 Connaught Road near Jessfield. For several days the new omnibuses have been conducting experimental runs along Great Western Road, Avenue Haigh and Avenue Edward VII.

Major Arthur Bassett of the British-American Tobacco Company returned yesterday from a trip to Hangchow.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dollar of San Francisco who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Dollar in Shanghai for several days are planning to depart on Friday on the Dollar-round-the-world steamer President Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dollar had planned an extensive trip through China while here but were prevented by the war. They will visit in the Philippines and Hongkong and then proceed around the world back to the United States.

"An outline of the History of the Shuang-Chiao Radio Station" is the title of a pamphlet in the English and Chinese which has just been issued by the Peking office of Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, Ltd., dealing with the radio station which has been completed near the Chinese capital by Japanese interests. In view of the fact that this wireless station has been the center of a diplomatic controversy between the United States and Japan and China, the pamphlet is of considerable interest in view of the fact that it contains a history of the plant and information regarding its equipment.

Through an error in the typographical department of THE CHINA PRESS an official notice from the Danish Consulate in yesterday morning's paper bore the Italian coat of arms at the top. We much regret this mistake.

Football Season Here Opens With Game Between Police And Sailor Team

The Shanghai Municipal Police Recreation Club opens the football season this afternoon with a game against the team from the British warship Despatch. The game will be played on the Police Grounds, commencing at 3.30 p.m. sharp.

As before, the Police will have teams in both the First Division and Second Division of the local league this year. They were considerably below the winners in both divisions last year, but it is reported that some good new material has been found, and they may be real contenders in the coming season.

FOOTBALL CLUB MEETS
The Shanghai Football Club will hold its annual general meeting next Monday, October 13, in the Committee Room of the Shanghai Rowing Club, on Soochow Road. The Club has already issued its report for the 1923-24 season, which shows the total number of playing members to be now 116, and of non-playing members 66. The financial position is very good, they having started the season with a credit of $171.82 and closed with $226.

The Club's teams made an excellent showing in both the first and second divisions here last season. They finished even with Recreation Club in the number of games won and lost in the First Division, the Rees being awarded first on account of a superior goal average. In the Second Division the Club's reserves made a brave struggle, finishing third. The Club was also a close contender for the Skottowe Cup, and regained possession of the Engineer's Challenge Cup. It was a very successful year, and the Club looks forward to still better work this year.

Both men then ran into the fields. No trace has as yet been found of them.

An armed robbery was also reported at an oil shop at 157 Avenue Road Monday evening. Six men, two of them armed with pistols, entered the shop, one armed man standing guard at the door. Ejection Of Labor To Entail Chaos, Says MacDonald

Workers' Weekly, dwelt on the unfairness of asking the Government to submit their case in advance to a select committee on which their political opponents hold the majority.

"The responsibility for complicating or preventing the work we are trying to do in the national interest," the Premier said, "should be fairly and publicly assessed in the House of Commons itself. Though the Government have no majority in the Lobby they are entitled to demand fair play. We are not a gang of footpads."

Mr. MacDonald continued that personally he would rejoice to be relieved of the strain and worry of office but, said that from national and international points of view he did not rejoice in the prospect of confusion and frustrated achievement which an attempt to eject the Labor Government may entail.

Reuter understands that the deliberations have not changed the position created by the Liberal amendment proposing the appointment of a select committee, namely, that the Government will insist on a decision by a vote of the House of Commons and not by an enquiry, whether by a select committee or by a judicial enquiry, that the Government will consequently be defeated and that dissolution of Parliament will follow.

ARMED ROBBERY, MURDER ATTEMPT, CHARGE AGAINST 4

Chauffeurs Are Accused In Mixed Court Here; Child
Wounded

A charge of armed robbery and attempted murder was brought in the Mixed Court yesterday against four men, three of them employees or former employees of Messrs. G. N. Marshall and Company here. The accused are Kaung Chi-tsoong, Chu Ah-peh, Kyei Dau-tz, and Sung Zien-ngo, the first and third being chauffeurs and the fourth a telephone operator. The case came up before Mr. Bucknell, American Assessor, and Magistrate Lao. Superintendent Vaughan appeared for the prosecution, and Messrs. Musso and Lemiere for the defence of the first and third accused respectively.

The robbery charged against the men took place in an alleyway off Santai Road, near North Soochow Road, on September 11. Four men, who it appears arrived in a motor truck belonging to Messrs. Marshall and Co., entered a house there, only an elderly woman and a little girl being present, and ransacked the place. One or two were armed with revolvers. Some noise outside finally frightened them, and they ran out of the house and up the alley, threatening passers-by with revolvers as they went along. A little child who stood in their path was shot down, being seriously wounded in the thigh. The men appear to have climbed into the motor truck in which they came, and continued along North Soochow Road as far as North Honan Road bridge, which was in a state of repair at the time and impassible, then left the truck and scattered. They were later rounded up, one by one, by police and detectives.

In Court yesterday evidence was given by a chauffeur employed by Messrs. Marshall and Co. regarding the movements of the first accused on the day in question. Police Sergeant Robinson then gave evidence of having gone to the scene of the robbery, and mentioned that in a room on the second floor he had found sacks containing thousands of opium tins. He had also gone to the home of the injured child, and had later seen the Marshall truck on North Soochow Road. He believed the motive of the robbery to have been opium.

Mr. Champney, of Messrs. Marshall and Co., also gave evidence. The truck which had been found had been detailed to the Rifle Range on September 11, to stay with the Japanese troops, Kaung, the first accused, being given charge of it. Witness later learned that one of their trucks had been used in connection with a robbery, and later got hold of Kaung at the Rifle Range and turned him over to the Police. He knew nothing against the honesty of any of the arrested men, three of whom were employees or former employees of the Company, prior to the day of the incident.

The police officers who arrested the various accused also gave evidence, as well as Sung Kung-sung, father of the fourth accused. With regard to the wounded child, Eu Ts-chang, a certificate was produced from the Red Cross Hospital showing that the little victim was suffering from bullet wounds in the right thigh, for femur being fractured, and would have to remain several weeks more in hospital.

This concluded that case for the prosecution, and the case was remanded until Saturday for a further hearing.

Major Zanni Again Held Back By Bad Flying Conditions

Major Zanni, the Argentine flier now in Shanghai on his trip around the world, who was due to hop off from here couple of days ago for Japan, was again delayed yesterday by a report from the Japanese Consulate that the storms over the sea near Japan made flying very dangerous at present.

Major Zanni, therefore, is still in Shanghai, together with his mechanician Mr. Beltrame. Major Zanni will start as soon as the meteorological conditions permit, and hopes to leave this morning. His flight to Japan is to be the prelude to a long jump across the Pacific to America, an extremely dangerous trip which many regard as suicidal at this time of the year.

It is hoped that the daring aviator will be able to get away today.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST RUSSIAN IS DISMISSED

Man Arrested Here Freed
By Mixed Court
Yesterday

In the Mixed Court yesterday the murder charge against a Russian here, brought in response to a report from the Chinese authorities in Harbin regarding the man, was dismissed. The case was one which arose out of the killing of a Russian, said to be a member of a bandit gang, in Manchuria. Later, it appears, a Harbin police officer was murdered, whose name was given in Chinese as Soo-peh-duh-li-kuh (Shopidick), was said to be a friend of the Russian who was killed in Manchuria.

Shopidick, who it appears was at one time deported from Harbin, was arrested here a couple of months ago on the murder charge. He was released, after examination, upon his putting up a bond, and the authorities here went into the case. Investigation finally showed that the Harbin authorities had dropped the charge, and the case was therefore dismissed. The bond the

Channel dredging in the
Black Point

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Whangpoo Conservancy Board's dredger "Hui Hu" will commence dredging operations over an area of the main channel of the Whangpoo River, extending from a point 700 feet below the

During the course of these operations those in charge of

In this connection attention is

America Safe In Doing Business With Germany

Washington, Sept. 2.—(Adoption to which the attention of the rest of the world will have to be turned) of the Dawes report makes the transaction of business with Germany by American interests entirely safe as a general proposition, according to the views expressed today by Secretary Hoover. Commenting on reports that many banks and business houses in this country are sending men to Germany to establish connections and work up business, Mr. Hoover asserted that the general effect of the adoption of the Dawes program has been to stimulate confidence and was the natural thing for American interests to do in going after German business. He was of the opinion that Germany has ample security for loans and credit extension, but held that each future transaction would have to be considered on its individual merit. In general however, he felt that banks and business men could now extend credit to German concerns.

Russia To Make Silver Purchases From Mexico

New York, Sept. 6.—A report from Mexico that arrangements were being made between the Mexican and Russian Governments for the coinage of a rather definite amount of silver currency was about the most important development in the silver situation during the week.

John D. Glenn, a financial agent in Mexico City, who is also associated with the Equitable Trust Company of New York, is understood to be the direct representative of the Mexican Government in these negotiations. It is also reported that Germany is also interested in securing silver direct from Mexico.

George Le Blanc, a vice president of Equitable Trust Co., is also understood to be in London and a party to these negotiations. Equitable Trust Co. represents producers in Mexico with an output of 750,000 ounces of silver a month. This is approximately 9 percent of the output of Mexico. Over 85 percent of the Mexican silver output is controlled by American Smelting & Refining Co., United States Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. and American Metal Co.

As regards the Russian arrangements it is the opinion in New York that actual details are practically consummated. Russia since early in the year has been securing silver by arrangement with the British Government, contracts covering actual mintage. Silver exports from London to Russia last week were around $4,300,000.

Silver production of Mexico this year is estimated around 90,000,000 ounces against 62,000,000 in this country and other world production of about 75,000,000 ounces.

Mint capacity at Mexico City is about the third largest on the American continent. In June pesos coined amounted to around 4,000,000.

The Russian Government originally approached this Government in trying to arrange for a large amount of silver currency. These negotiations were abortive due to the attitude of the State Department. Afterward the contract with the British Government was made. For the past several months a surprisingly large amount of business has been developed between Mexico and Russia.

In this country it is believed that Germany will continue to come into this market for silver since it can secure minting arrangements, a privilege denied to the Soviet Government.

At the same time even a slight reduction in Mexican exports to this country would be rather serious since exports now exceed imports and amount to nearly $20,000,000 (value) for the first seven and a half months of this year. Against domestic production the amount available for domestic requirements was around 3,000,000 ounces for the

U.S. TO DEVELOP THE COUNTRY'S POTASH SUPPLIES

Increasing Production Will Keep Pace With Alien Control, Report

Washington, Sept. 4.—Escape for American potash consumers from the grip of the monopoly, expected to result from the formation of the Franco-German combine, was predicted today by George Otis Smith, director of the Geological Survey. He maintains that the potential potash supplies within this country are sufficient, if developed, to meet domestic needs.

Organization of the foreign potash combine, Dr. Smith believes, will give impetus to the development of American potash resources and increasing domestic production should keep pace with the growing control of the foreign supply through monopoly. Action by the next Congress on the Sheppard bill is expected by Dr. Smith. This bill will provide for the expenditure of $500,000 a year for five years for the location of potash deposits in the United States.

CONFIDENT OF RESOURCES
Confidence in the potash resources of the country is felt by Dr. Smith, who believes that the Franco-German combine may possibly serve the same purpose in forcing development as was caused by the World War when the shutting off of foreign supplies brought reliance on domestic resources.

"The search for American potash," he said, "indeed antedated the World War, for back in 1910 a German monopoly in potash treated as a scrap of paper" its contract with the American consumers and our Government was forced to seek ways and means of defense. In this period of 1910-14 Government bureaus investigated many possible sources of potash with a view to their commercial utility.

"When foreign supplies were cut off in 1914 following Germany's next move, the American people rose to the occasion and under the stimulus of high prices succeeded by the close of the war in producing potash amounting to about 20 percent of their normal pre-war requirements, most of the investigative sources being utilized.

"With the close of the war and the renewed accessibility of cheap foreign potash, prices in American fell and most of the producers closed down. In 1923 less than 5 percent of the total potash sales of all grades used in the United States was actually produced here. Thus the dependence of America upon foreign sources of potash is virtually as complete as before the war."

DEPOSITS ARE FOUND
Potash deposits have been located at Seales Lake, in California, Dr. Smith continued, but Texas, he believes, is the potential field for domestic sources of potash supply.

"Investigations carried on for the past few years by the Geological Survey in Western Texas, partly in co-operation with the State Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology, point very encouragingly to this region as the probable site of enormous deposits of soluble potash salts, which when once opened up could be mined at a very low cost," said Dr. Smith. "Although the opening up of the Texas deposits would undoubtedly be very expensive if the costs were amortized over a period of years, the charges for mining the salts should not be excessive."

BETTER FAR EAST TRADE PREDICTED BY SHIP'S AGENT

Japanese Regain Lumber Market; Canned Goods Promising

New York, Sept. 2.—Rates are holding steady and volume of freight traffic is increasing in the North Pacific trades, according to L. L. Bates, general freight agent of the Admiral Oriental Line at Seattle, who is in this city for a business trip of a few days, after which he plans to visit his old home in Ohio and go from there to a joint conference of representatives of the Pacific Lines at Montreal next Monday.

"Lumber business with the Orient is looking up," said Mr. Bates. "The surplus held by the Japanese Government is gradually being absorbed, and there has been a noticeable increase in inquiries and bookings of special specifications. We are also coming into the active season for wheat, and four and canned goods are beginning to move in considerable volume. The overland movement of assorted freight is very good, and the general outlook for business between Seattle and the Far East is more encouraging than it has been for months."

The Admiral Oriental Line is moving good sized cargoes of silk. Other homeward cargoes are improving at the same time, and outward space has been well filled throughout the summer. Incidentally our line has the fastest service across the Pacific and a recent shipment of silk brought in by the President McKinley was transported from Seattle to New York, a distance of 3,098 miles, in the record breaking time of 72 hours and 48 minutes.

transcontinental lines gives Seattle a great advantage over other Pacific ports in view of the fact that it is the nearest United States port to Japan. These advantages have been responsible for the wonderful growth of the city in the past twenty-five to thirty years, which has exceeded the most sanguine anticipations.

Speaking of the general conditions in the Far East, Mr. Bates said: "Financial conditions in Japan are greatly improved, although the yen is still below normal. In order to aid in stabilizing the Government has put a heavy tax on luxuries. In China there is great need of railroad development. When that comes there will be a wonderful market in that country for American products."

In regard to the matters to be discussed at the Montreal conference, Mr. Bates said there was no likelihood of any drastic changes, the main purpose being to bring about better working arrangements and close cohesion between the Atlantic-Far East & Pacific Westbound conferences and stabilizing conditions for the benefit of the trade.

RUSSIA TO OFFER OIL RIVALRY TO UNITED STATES

Seeks Business In Europe At Present Held By Americans

Washington, September 4.—A warning of approaching competition between Russian and American oil in the petroleum markets of Europe was contained in a special report on the petroleum industry of Russia issued by the Commerce Department. Russia, as a competitor in foreign petroleum markets, the department declared, promises to become more aggressive year by year, although the expenditure of considerable capital will be necessary to provide transportation facilities.

At present, according to the report, the Russian petroleum industry is becoming more than a potential factor in the supply of petroleum products to the world's markets. In the first six months of the current year the Soviet Government shipped abroad over 758,000 tons of petroleum products, practically all of which went to European countries.

This figure was said to be over 80 percent of the total exports for 1913, the last pre-war year. Thus, the report stated, Russian petroleum products are again beginning to have an effect on the European markets, which effect seems destined to grow yearly.

Moreover, the department pointed out, despite political boundaries, communications for supplying the world's markets take the most convenient routes. Hence, the development of the petroleum industry in Russia will have a wide influence extending beyond the frontiers of that country.

At the present time, according to the report, the preponderance of supply over demand in world markets tends toward reversal, and the petroleum companies are contending for the oil fields as reserves for future demands. With the construction of proper means of transportation from the Russian oil fields to the ports, the report predicts that the export business will exceed its former maximum. Thus far, the report stated, the Bolshevik Government has granted only three concessions to foreign concerns to operate oil fields within its boundaries, and only two of these are actually being worked. Those in operation are the one granted the Societa Minerale Italo-Belge di Georgia on the Shirak Steppes and the one to an American concern in the Apsheron Peninsula. The third concession is to an American part of Sakhalin Island, but since that area is held by the Japanese the concession has been inoperative.

What The American Papers Think Of The War?

AMERICANS and other foreigners residing in Shanghai who have been wondering about the reception which the news regarding the civil war in China has been receiving in the home press may now have their curiosity satisfied. A cable sent by The China Press to a pressclipping bureau in New York a few weeks ago brought the first response in the form of a small arm-load of clippings in the mail arriving Monday. Although the period covered by the clippings received only covered the week from August 29 to September 4 at the very start of the war, the material covered several hundred columns of small type and dealt with every possible phase of the Chinese situation, not to mention interviews with about everybody in New York and elsewhere who had ever been in China or had examined a map of the country sufficiently well to know where Shanghai is located.

Among the interesting views on the China situation was an address delivered before the Chinese Students' Alliance by Dr. Jeremiah W. Jenks, who investigated currency reform in China many years ago. Dr. Jenks, according to a report of his address in one of the New York papers, said that the political troubles of China were largely due to the lack of modern election laws and the lack of a free press. Since Dr. Schurman, American Minister in Peking, was just arriving in the States at the time of the outbreak of hostilities in Shanghai, naturally he was besieged for views on the China situation. In an interview with the Associated Press correspondent at Honolulu, the American Minister stated that the "present military displays in China are of a political nature and will not upset the economic life of the country. It is safe to predict that the trouble is no different from those upheavals which have been common in China for years."

In view of the fact that the war had barely started, most of the editorial comment had to do with explanations of the general political situation in China. The New York Telegram on September 4 said: "Civil war in China is already an actuality. Somebody is playing a desperate game over there and there are distressing intimations that it is not a new one. To anybody even casually acquainted with conditions in the Far East the portents are ominously familiar." Then, after going rather pointedly into the arms question, the editorial concludes: "But the situation is a dangerous one. Anybody can start a war, especially in China, but who will say where it will stop?"

The New York World, after quoting Mr. Roy S. Anderson of Peking, (now in New York) to the extent of three columns, editorialises as follows:

"1.—The fighting ground Shanghai is merely a flank attack designed to occupy the Peking Government's attention while its real enemy, Chang Tso-lin, prepares for a drive on Peking from the north."

"2.—The foreign Governments, now so concerned over possible danger to their property, that they despatch a daily note to Peking, have made it their studied policy for a decade keep that same Government too weak to resist their will in matters of local concessions, oil rights and stolen harbors. They tie its hands and call on it in moments of emergency to use them."

"3.—Time after time—and in this case it happened again—conspiracy against the Peking Government has been hatched in the 'foreign settlements,' areas in the heart of China where foreign nations fly a foreign flag. China's delegates appended at the Washington Arms

Conference for the restoration of these areas to Chinese sovereignty, and found their plea regarded by the powers as a pleasantry.

"4.—Foreign interference in China has gone far enough already. A 'hands-off' policy is the best one now. The intervention which is hinted at can constitute nothing but an active interference in behalf of the enemies of China's integrity as one nation."

The New York Herald-Tribune apparently does not think the present disruption will materially change the China situation or that the conclusion of the present struggle will be any different from the ending of past outbursts:

"Since the dawn of the new democracy in 1912 the Chinese have pretty regularly substituted casualty lists for election returns, and under a divertingly Occidental terminology have continued their political life in the best Oriental manner. As the military leaders have ranged up and down the country, or conducted their fiercely suave intrigues in Peking, it has been very bad for China but nothing has yet appeared to show that the minority of Western trained minds can in any near future, overcome the native political tradition. Barring foreign intervention, one looks to see the situation work itself out some day in the ancient way."

The New York World also has some pointed remarks to make about the arms situation and does not hesitate to place the blame, as is shown in the following:

"It was one of the achievements of the Arms Conference three years ago in Washington that the western powers pledged themselves to permit no exportation of arms to China. Now, according to one of The World's correspondents in London, the Italians have admitted the sale of $3,000,000 worth of arms and munitions to Peking, and the Chancellor of the Italian Embassy in Peking, reports that munitions firms in the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany are also selling arms to rival Chinese factions. These charges deserve sifting. It was to give breathing-space to a country badly torn by civil strife and overloaded with armies ready to start marching once they had something to fight with that the powers pledged themselves to call a halt on gun-running into China."

The New York Evening Post, in its introduction to a column editorial discussion trying to make plain to its readers the geographical "misalliance" of Shanghai being located within the political sphere of a Chekiang military governor, says:

"In the flooded rice fields outside of Shanghai two armies are fighting a characteristically Chinese second-rate civil war. They are not large armies as the world has known large armies since 1914. Nor is the fighting particularly fierce as the world has come to know fierce fighting. In all probability, 40,000 Chinese soldiers are engaged, and Chinese soldiers are more noted for their discretion in running away than for their valor in last ditches. But it is a war. There are casualties and railway stoppages and refugees fleeing from the theater of conflict. In Shanghai the large foreign colonies are on edge, though in no great danger. If the city is actually attacked, the foreigners will defend their lives and property against either army, with the aid of sailors and marines from two dozen gunboats that have arrived on the scene. But the war is likely to be decided out in the rice fields and along the railroad embankments."

Several of the American papers profess to see the hand of the Soviet in the Chinese muddle. Thus the Puffalo News: "There is believed to be some connection between the troubles now developing in China and the activities of the Russian Soviet government. Peking recently established relations with Moscow. Wherever the Soviet government establishes contact demoralisation soon becomes manifest. In the present circumstances there could be no more fruitful field than China in which to sow the seeds of anarchy. Can the powers permit China to sink into the depths of chaos?"

The Boston Transcript, influential and conservative paper published in the section and environment which produced President Coolidge, is one of the few American papers which senses the significance of the present Chinese struggle to the United States. Says the editor of that paper: "The situation in China presents a very grave problem for the United States. . . . We are nearer than any European nation, and our opportunity and our will toward practical and non-intrusive help to the Chinese is greater than that of any other people. . . . It also brings Chinese affairs nearer to a crisis which in one way or another must be solved. To tell the simple truth, if it is not met with firmness as well as discretion the condition of renewed and extended civil war will be taken advantage of by the Japanese influence in a way which will go far toward not only extinguishing the hopes of Chinese independence, self-rule and responsibility, but also toward wiping out American opportunities for trade and free development. . . . It is immediately and sternly necessary that the United States should be prepared to exercise its influence not only for the safety of our legitimate trade and development interests in the country, but for the future freedom and independence of the Chinese themselves."

The New York American, leader of the Hearst group of papers, asks the question: "What's going on in China?" and professes to see in the present civil war the influence of Japan. Says the editor of this widely read paper: "Well, the fundamental trouble is that the Central Government of Peking is nothing but a name. It occupies buildings and controls archives, but has no armies. The armies of China belong to the great Super-Tuchuns, or military governors of groups of provinces. The situation, therefore, represents another bid by Japan's catpaw for control of the destinies of China, which means control of railroad and industrial and agricultural concessions. The interest of China's friends, above all America, is to see the purely Chinese forces of the country, in this case represented by General Wu Pei Fu, triumph over a very serious threat of Japanese domination which, once established, will be very difficult to shake off."

The Christian Science Monitor of Boston, after quoting Mr. John V. A. MacMurray of the State Department and Dr. John Dewey of Columbia University on the so-called "Chinese puzzle," summarises the situation thusly: "Here in little is none the less the whole of the important and perplexing story. The East never has been politically minded. Chinese life never has developed so that its citizens think in political terms. From time immemorial the family unit has been at once the active and conservative force, supplying the most of such machinery of government as the West built up by other means. For centuries laws and regulations have been reduced to the simplest terms. Then, with the overnight revolt, China emerged as a republic, munitioned with a mass of customs, mainly sound but wholly uncodified—with no 'law' in any usually accepted sense of the phrase."

And the New York Times ends the discussion by stating that there is little danger for foreign residents in the Shanghai area but is not so certain regarding the smaller groups of foreigners in the fighting areas and concludes as follows: "Since the last trial of strength between General Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin which ended in Chang's defeat and retirement to Mukden, there has been a Washington conference which debated the problem of the restoration of order in China through the strengthening of the prestige of the Central Government. But in that direction little visible progress has been made. We witness once more the pathetic spectacle of diplomatic protests at Peking addressed to the Foreign Minister of a Central Government which is helpless to enforce its orders upon the provincial militarists. The unhappy country is still waiting for the man strong enough and patriotic enough to restore the semblance of unity and peace which China did manage to maintain under the Manchus."

The Harbin Scandal

THE arrest of Mr. M. Ostroumoff, Goudatti, and Mikailoff, three of the most responsible members of the Russian executive of the Chinese Eastern Railway was not unexpected by those who had watched developments in Manchuria with any degree of closeness. It is not to be supposed that any of these three gentlemen endeared himself to the Chinese authorities in the dispute over the Land Office question which raged last year, so fiercely. For the claims of the railway to control land matters within the area allotted to it was bitterly contested in a fight in which the railway officials had the support of the foreign consuls, who are now actively engaged in agitating for the release of these officials. And if they were not popular with the Chinese officials, they were even more disliked by the Russian Soviets. Mr. Ostroumoff has been wanted badly by the Russian government, who did everything they could, not only to put him out of power but actually to get him back within their jurisdiction, while Mr. Mikailoff was at one time Minister of Finance of the Far Eastern Republic, and, as such, a noted opponent of Bolshevik ideals. We do not suppose it matters precisely for what reason Chang Tso-lin has ordered the arrest of these men, but the necessity of some sort of legal procedure seems to have been realised in the alleged formulation of a charge against these men of embezzlement. That there is anything upon which such a charge could have been based is open to considerable doubt, in view of the fact that the Bolshevik directors had barely taken up office and certainly had no opportunity to make adequate investigations, when the charge was preferred and the arrests made. We would have preferred not to make this comment had we not had in the past instances of the travesties which occasionally pass for justice in Harbin—such as the Korniloff case, where the death sentence was passed on the defendant under law promulgated subsequent to the commission of the crime.

The official "explanation" for this action is utterly absurd. They state:—

"The Chinese citizens generally have, for some time past, entertained acute ill-feeling towards these Russian officials, inasmuch as they recently put on the stage a play which tended to cast a slur on the prestige of the Chinese nation. Moreover, as regards the Chinese Eastern Railway question, they have long plotted secretly, thereby destroying the administration of the Railway. Even in connection with the business of the Railway, there have been many obscure points regarding past action. For these reasons, they have been arrested and taken into custody, now that the Soviet-Mukden agreement has been concluded, though the Chinese authorities concerned long ago considered it necessary to arrest and examine them."

The play which "tended to cast a slur on the prestige of the Chinese nation" was "The Geisha," performed in the theater of the Railway club. The secret plotting to destroy the railway administration exists only in the imagination of a few who wish to imagine such things. The fact is that the profits of the railway have increased every year as we showed in these columns early in August. And the existence of "many obscure points regarding past action" certainly does not justify any such action as that of arresting these men on a criminal charge for which adequate investigation could not possibly have been made overnight between October 3 and 4.

We are not, for the moment, concerned with the position of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Russo-Asiatic Bank vis-a-vis the Soviet-Mukden agreement, except insofar as it has led to the arrest of these men. It is clear, however, that but for this understanding such a step would not have been taken. For if there were any grounds for such an action, as the Chinese allege did exist, there would have been a better indication of the bona fides of this step if it had been taken much earlier. To say the least the whole matter seems open to grave suspicion. The matter is not of such academic interest as the distance between Shanghai and Harbin would appear to indicate. In this latter place we are witnessing a Chinese experiment with an important city with a large foreign population, under non-territorial conditions. And what is happening in Harbin to-day may, sooner or later, occur in Shanghai. The gravity of the matter cannot be too highly emphasised, for if, as it seems, the process of justice is to be prostituted to the expediences of politics between the Soviet and Mukden, there will be every reason for foreign opposition to the surrender of rights at present held.

Accidents	Injured	Killed
1923	2,025	947
1922	1,478	706

The above figures further show that one out of every hundred motor cars in Shanghai claims the life of a human being within a year, and that three people are more or less injured daily by motor cars.

A recent correspondent to a local paper considers regulations regarding the unrestricted use of undimmed headlights a debatable question. Quite so perhaps in England, but conditions in Shanghai are certainly different, where we do not have to go far out of town to find no sidewalks. Suddenly a blinding light is thrown on the pedestrian with dazzling effort, and are we to depend on the judgment of the driver to avoid being maimed or killed?

Thanking you for bringing the above to the notice of your readers.

HERE'S TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Here's to your good health! A better toast cannot be drunk. When we meet daily and give the usual greeting, "How are you?" we are asking the most important question in the world. It means, "What is your physical, bodily state today?" and implies that this is the main thing about you.

Time was when men fogged and starved the body to get the best results out of the soul. That was an error. We recognise now that the highest efficiency of a man comes from a perfect mind in a perfect body.

"Body for the sake of the soul," was Plato's motto.

Just what influence the body has on the mind we may not fully know. A scholium of Spinoza's was, "For what the body can do no one has hitherto determined." The first duty of parents is to do what they can to insure good health for their children. For all the religion and intellect possible in a child can be spoiled by a bad liver.

How many "wicked" things are but the misuses of imperfect physical conditions? The fretful, impatient, petulant, soured woman; the wayward, intractable, cranky, grouchy man, often but reap the results of the abused or neglected flesh.

It is not the devil, but dyspepsia, that makes us morbid and gloomy.

And much of the spiritual excellences come from good health:

Crippled by Corns? Use "Gets-It"

The only good corn is a dead corn. A few drops of "Gets-It" will quickly start any corn.

or callous on the way to "the happy hunting ground." "Gets-It" brings instant relief from all pain and burning. One bottle contains enough "Gets-It" to remove a dozen corns, hard or soft, old or new. Costs you nothing if it fails—but it doesn't fail. Let your druggist tell you why millions demand it. E. Lawrence & Co., Inc., Chicago.
